Central High School
Grand Rapids, Mich.
May, 1943

Dear Joe,

To you - we the Class of 1943 - dedicate our Annual.

To you - a friend or relative - we address our letters.

To you - a graduate or teacher from Central High - we send a record of our school life, our classes and sports, our work and play.

To you - Joe - in grateful appreciation for what you are doing for us - we write.

You should see Paul towering above the Student Council. It's a democratic council; Mr. Pylman insists upon being only an advisory member. Paul directs our business — complaints about defective drinking fountains — management of noon-time movies . . . If you were to walk in the front door today you'd see a service flag. The Student Council put it there — the Student Council and the student body . . . Climbing the stairs on our way to classes, we look back at it and remember you, Joe . . .

Have you heard about the new defense, for the war but on by our truly organized War Council?
Well Matthews had a lot of fun in going into the favorites for the price of a defense stamp. This council is the group that looks after your interests here they're said to be planning a news service for you and your buddies from Central. They cooperate with other groups in organizing victory lunches and war bond sales. They really keep us busy so you are keep 'em busy?

We've been watching your progress around the world, Joe Malta, Tunisia, Dakar, and Bona are constantly on our minds. Even seventh graders can point out Bizerte on the map.

We're learning more than geography, though. We're learning to understand our own great democracy, its ideals, its foundations, its leaders, its problems.
There's more, too.

We're preparing in these classes for our parts in the rebuilding of the world tomorrow. . . . History is alive these days. . . .

Reports and discussions are not dry and uninteresting when they follow hamburgs and potatoes chaps. The Current Events Club made itself very popular this year by giving defense stamps as prizes to those who asked and answered questions on their Annual Quiz. A White Elephant Sale made one meeting hilarious. Miss Duvilly was almost always the highest bidder. We wonder what one of the members will do with his lovely string of beads.

... In your night quest, run math. Casses are growing, Harry everyone takes math now - "math-matics not recobates; quoting" These test...

As each week brings some sort of new aptitude test for senior boys, they're more than thankful for their good foundations in math.

We have heard about those wonderful records you've made, Joe. We've heard, and we're rising our best here - and working to make Central as proud of us as we are proud of you. . . .

The Math Club
had its monthly meeting the other night on 116 Miss Reese approved our plans for a wonderful strong bunch. You know being a member of this club is something to look forward to during long semesters of keeping up a B-average in Math and something to be mighty proud of once you're in.
From what we hear you would-be officers are mighty glad you had so many math activities in high school.

It's been swell hearing from you, Joe Your letters take us right over miles of ocean to the places you see and describe. The French Foreign Legion and the native tribes of North Africa, the natives on Guadalcanal; the Eskimos in Alaska these live before our eyes. It was in English classes that you learned to appreciate your heritage of literature. You wrote themes, too. Maybe that's why you write such good letters

Our Pin and Pencil Club meetings are always interesting - whether we're reading a humorous theme, playing a game, enjoying a spread, or eating something that Miss Tidy has passed out for refreshment.

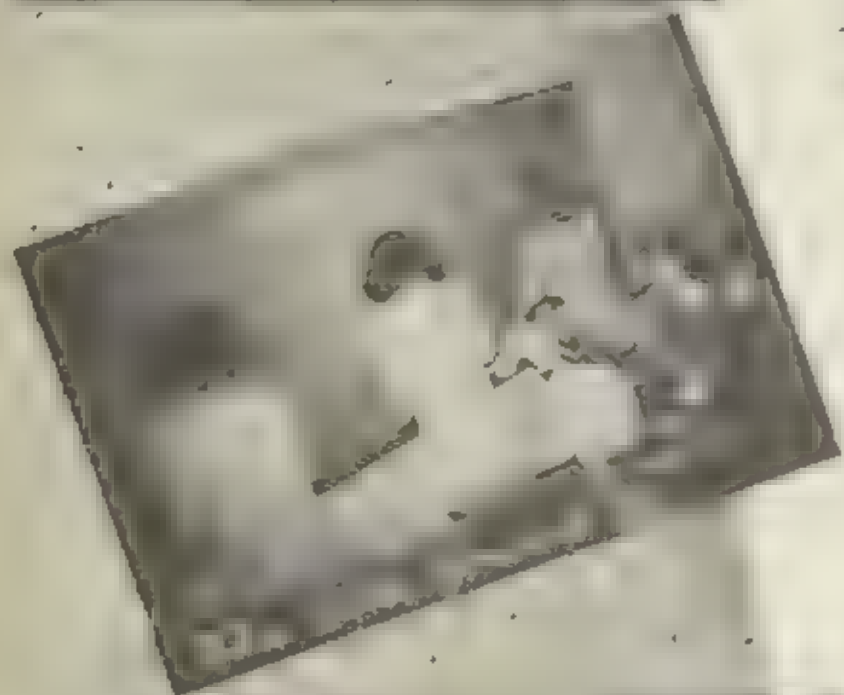

We're asking the Inquirer teachers to save some of their best themes. Then when a future Stewart Co. White or Arthur Vanderburg graduates from Central, he can thank the Pin and Pencil Club for preserving some of his early literary efforts to him? Will Joe, you never can tell.

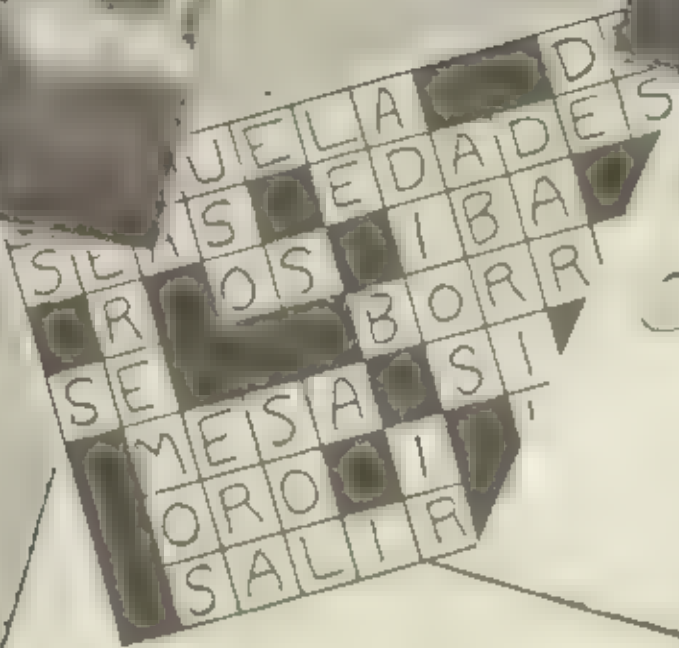

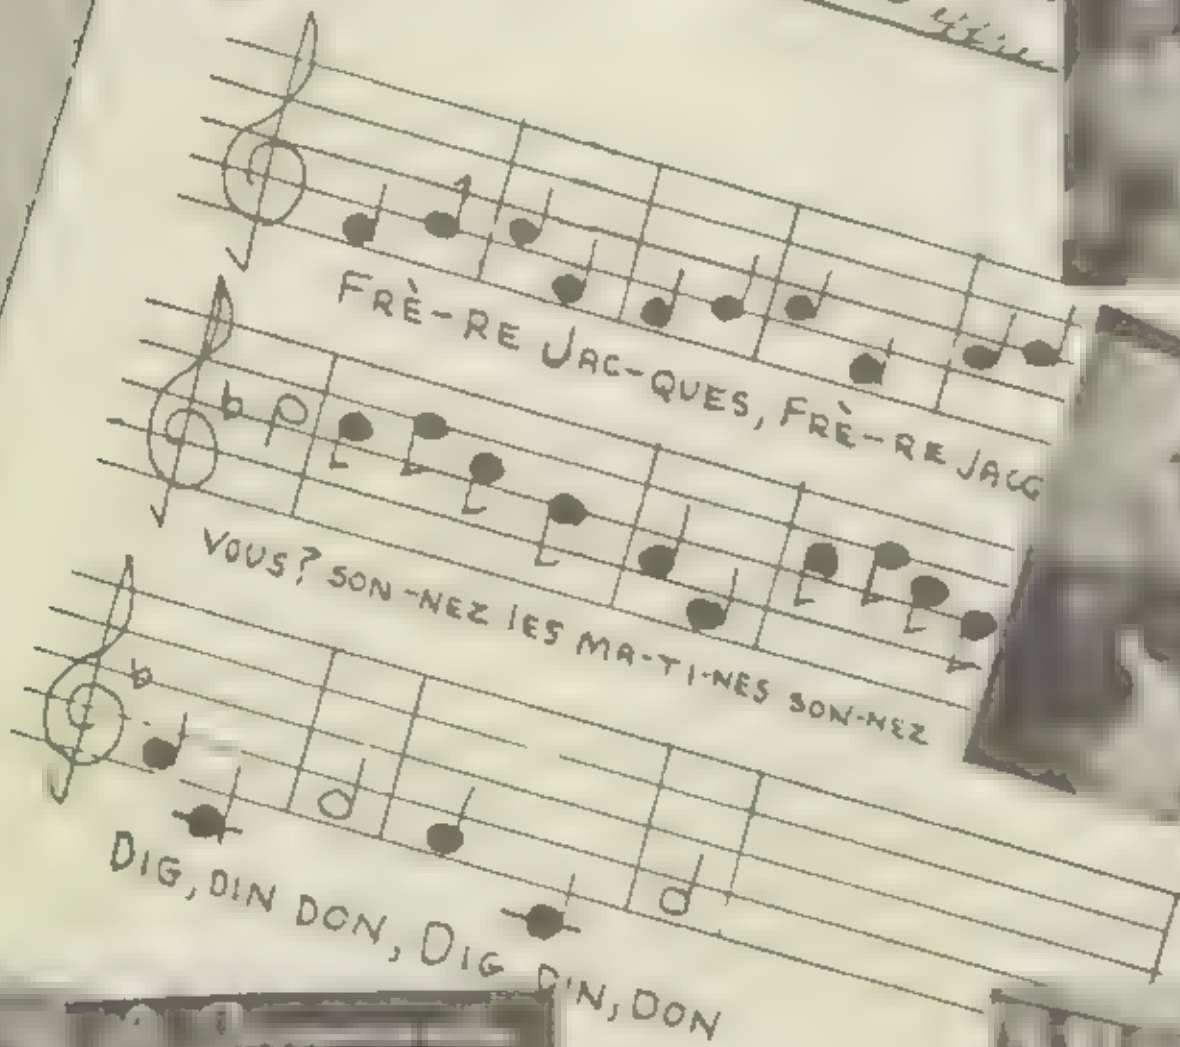

Some of us used to study foreign languages merely to fulfill college entrance requirements.

Nowadays our growing faith in a workable federation of all nations makes us eager to understand other peoples - their customs and habits. Language study helps. . . We know the French better when we've learned to love their songs. We appreciate the Spanish more when we've studied their clothing, customs, and architecture. We understand the civilizations of every age and country more clearly when we've explored the classics of Rome.

There is one thing about French Club meetings they are always different the program may be a recital of some French songs or a talk on the situation at home or even a dramatization of French life or of the French people I have heard and I hope to hear more of these things in the future Go to see our part in the Christmas assembly like costume costumes and the exquisite harmony of French songs creates a scene breathtakingly lovely

a Classical Club meeting the other afternoon, for you should have seen the members dressed up in old togas, putting on a skit about several great Romans. Even Miss Holt and Miss Powers found the old Romans funny.
Classical Club must be about the richest organization in Central. They have priority on half the profits from used book sales.
They're generous too. They donate books and make annual awards for excellence in Latin. You'd be proud to be a member of Classical Club.
- They gave $1.00 to the Red Cross.

You can be proud of Strange . . . to be celebrating Christmas with the rest of the world in a strife, when . . . they do not rejoice or make merry . . . They will creep into their silent churches and murmur a silent prayer . . . for peace. The Christmas customs, the family customs, these they dare not keep Come, then, let us keep for them their homely Christmas ceremonies! We who are the bright hope of all those races locked in strife, let us keep their legendary customs tonight."

From the Narrator's script

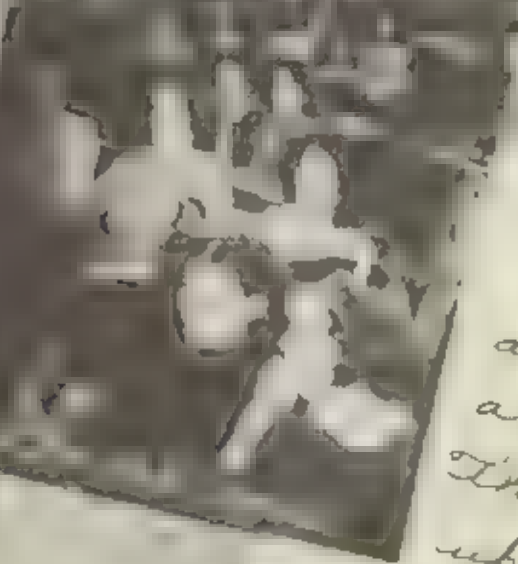

Paintings on the walls, easels scattered about, tables littered with materials, the odor of oil paint, turpentine, wet clay, soap, ink - all these greet you, Joe, as you enter the art nooks on the second floor. You remember those peaceful junior high days when imaginings filled your every "master-piece". Things are different now. These imaginings have become reality. War posters line our halls . . . turned out by future camouflage artists, cartoonists, muralists, illustrators. Art plays a great part in our victory effort.

When you hear pleasant music floating down the corridors during the third hour, you may know that Central's a Cappella Choir is practicing. Perhaps it is a program for one of the city churches or the Christmas program or the Spring Concert. Lately, you may have heard the beautiful "Creation" being prepared for the All City Choir Festival.
In the Choir, there is harmony - even at their spreads and parties.

Have you heard about our new Mayor and Menor Club, too?
That's the club made up of girls with high grades and music ability who realize that there is a wealth of musical talent here at Central At their assembly they presented soloists as well as the combined Senior and Junior Girls' Glee Club. Later we hope they'll sponsor the Junior Chorus and the Boy's Glee Club. The Mayor and Menor Club too, is very active.
Had a huge swimming lab at the Glee Club Banquet

On Nov 7th a detour was made to a sketchy new university building in our central high school was complete. This well dressed high school band has led our school through all the year's activities. Go to town football victories to music assemblies and the Spring Concert. They sure can play! I remember Paul Hangering 20th's just completed his 4th year as the drum major

This year, as always, the orchestra played for many of our assemblies.
This year, as always, they played their favorite march for many processions and recessions — and each time it seemed to fit the occasion. How those brass and violin sections do improvise! The orchestra this year has provided excellent musical entertainment culminating in two musical assemblies.
We always rate well in the All City Orchestra Fistival. There's a reason — three reasons in fact — talent, Mr. Petrulli, and hard work.

If you lose your fountain pen here at Central, you go up to the Lost and Found Room to see if it has been picked up. You know, Joe, it's really an excellent service that the National Honor Society performs in running the Lost and Found. It's very efficient, too. That's because of the high caliber of the students who are elected into the Society. They are certainly a fine group, and Miss Powers and Miss Holt must be proud to sponsor such an outstanding organization.

Our chapter of the Junior Red Cross has worked hard during the year, carrying on their regular peacetime activities in addition to trying to help make things a little easier for fighting boys like you. In the fall we packed "Friendship Boxes," small packages of everyday luxuries to be sent to children in England. We went over the top in the annual Roll Call and this spring conducted a V-book campaign that was very successful. With Mrs Pangborn's help we did our part in helping "the greatest mother in the world"

It was a notoriously lazy senior who remarked the other day, "There is no place to come to sleep!" Stretched on a bed made of two chairs, he had propped himself on one scrawny elbow and was looking at his hardworking classmates whose job it is to give Central the best Annual it has ever had. You never saw a more littered up place than that office. You see, last semester the staff ran around the halls being inspired by student activities, getting brainstorms, and taking all the pictures we're sending you with this letter. When the time came for putting everything together, the whole staff crowded into the little cartooned office to pass their ideas and evolve an Annual unlike any that had gone before. Their work is not finished at this writing, but they have learned a great deal about making a book in wartime with frozen supplies. When you read this, the Annual will have become one more milestone in Central's history.

(Thanks to Max H. ...

If anyone wants excitement around Central, he usually drops into the Helios Office. Something is always going on there. The members of the Monthly staff play practical jokes on one another when not frantically busy preparing the "dummy" to go to press. It's a messy place, the Monthly office, but it turns out the magazine on schedule and Centralites get excited the day it comes out.

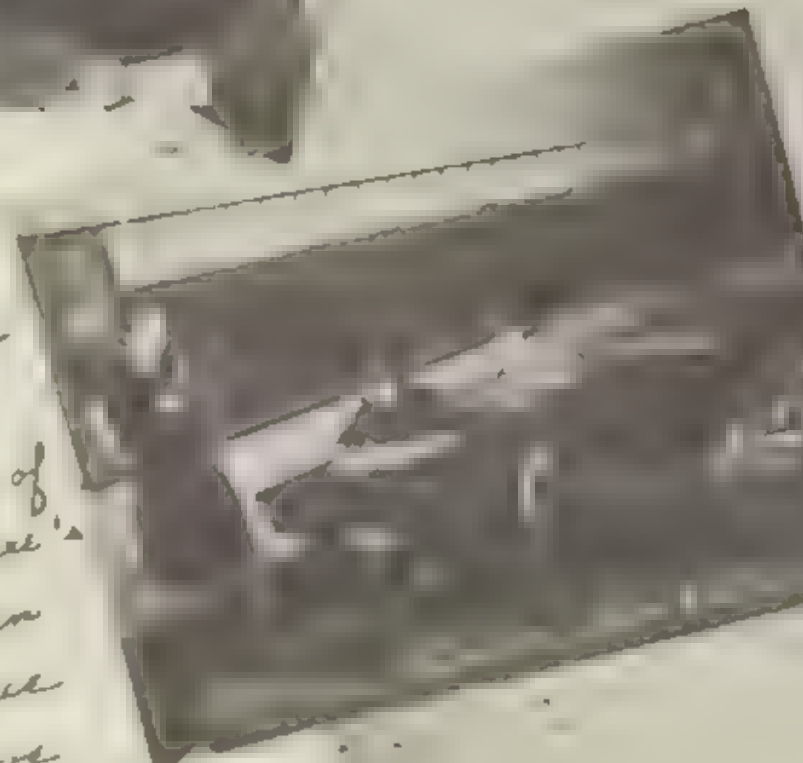

After a few days of shouting by the editor, the circulation staff goes into action. Doug Wicks and his staff have done a grand job selling subscriptions, more than we have sold in many a year. Next, Hermie and her literary staff, Chuckie with her event and comment, and Ray's ad staff swing into production. Bill Hartmann snaps the pictures with the help of Graham, and Ed draws the pictures. Last but not least, Ernie and his staff collect. That keeps us going without the help of everyone concerned from the typing staff to the poster-makers, the Helios could never be put out.

... meters and miles - you, didn't they, Joe? - even when you were in Mr. Barbers physics class. I'm sure you learned about them. comes in handy, no doubt. when you work with those big iron guns.
It wasn't all work in Mr.

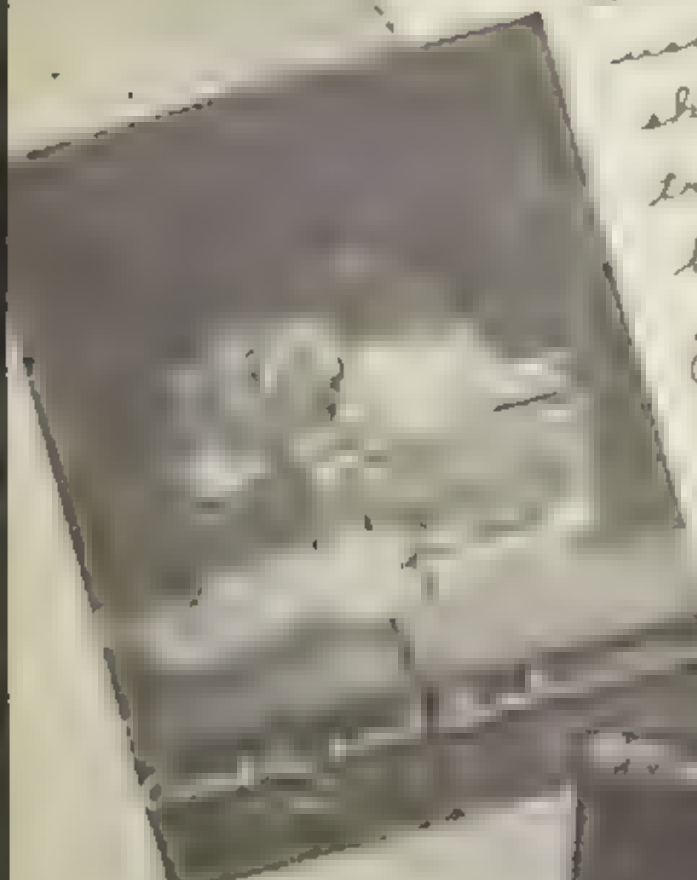

Barbers classes though.
Remember the Christmas parties? Those awful parties coming from the them lab are as bad as ever and the paramecium and amoeba are studied as intently today as they were when you were here. . . .

Have you ever been on a foodless picnic — even ignore rationing? The members of the Biology Club have "Nootsore" and weary, we tramped on to a pre-arranged spot, after what seemed like twenty miles of hiking in a temperature of about 200°. Naturally, we all had enormous appetites and immediately began to prepare for the feast. Imagine our feelings when we found that Miss Porter had forgotten the food! Not all our hikes turn out that way, however. Why once . . .

When you fellows entered the service you left some mighty good jobs for the girls to fill. Our commercial classes are more popular than ever. Many of us are learning that there's more to bookkeeping than recording in an allowance book or budget. Why, we used to think of typing and shorthand merely as good training for a prospective business girl. When the government started requisitioning typewriters for the armed forces, however, we discovered that a modern fighter can find many uses for commercial knowledge.

Our shops seem about the same at first glance, but if you were to look closer, you would notice that the schools are doing war work in fact, some courses are entirely converted to war production. The boys are making everything from bulldozers for the military forces to those accurate little model airplanes used in pilot training. Mr. Hanson says that next year we'll have a pre-induction shop work training course. Some of our fellows will get a head start on the draft. So you see, for, we're behind you in act as well as in thought.

Remember the delicious smells that used to come from the cooking classes? Mrs Brown and Mrs Wilson's classes are still cooking despite war time restrictions.
We seldom smell "catastrophes" now. That's because they plan every detail as carefully as your officers plan a military operation. . . . We like your uniforms? You're lucky to have experts turning them out like future experts are learning the first rules of sewing in our Home Economics classes.

The Domestic Club is made up of very able Home Economics students From the day they are in-treated in a solemn and beautiful candle lighting service to the final meeting of their high school days, Homecons are learning and enjoying themselves at the same time, learning about fashions and values by presenting style shows, learning about gracious living by giving teas, enjoying themselves by having spreads and parties. Miss Gillette tells us that Domestic is "for the girl, for the school, for the home, for the community."

The ROTC makes better citizens because it creates a better understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship. You service men know the necessity for discipline, and no doubt recognize the responsibility of the individual to the group. ROTC boys learn these things and the principles of leadership as well.
Boys join because they want to become useful citizens. They feel that military training and discipline are important in the life of high school student because they teach him the weaknesses of past national defense and give him a foundation on which to build himself into a good citizen.

Bars and Chevrons is necessarily a select group. It consists of the R O T C officers and the eight sponsors. They re-

Van Buren is proud of our officers. So are we. You'll be glad to know, Joe, that certain . . . Take the skit at the '11 & '12 Harry, the new sponsor was cast in the leading role that really gave the boys a chance to know him. Traditionally the serious are very hesitant to parties but between spreads and "outings", they managed to work the

When the government
"request" for an accelerated physical program was announced, the men and senior boys immediately dropped to a low level.
The boys' enthusiasm, morale, entire gym was one year favorite ancient track, also involving sit ups, squat thrusts, squat jumps, pull ups, back lifts, and push ups have put "Conner's Commendations" into top shape. The girls, too, are utilizing calisthenics and are doing and outdoor games to strengthen their muscles.
Because of this program for Conner's contribution is to the Navy, Marines, Coast and Guard will be physically fit to carry out their duties.

and there we were, in the midst of about fifty blue-clad girls, screaming at the top of their voices while trying to keep the volley balls from touching the floor. We should have known better than to pick a Monday afternoon on which to see Miss Campbell. She was watching over the competing G.A.A. teams. But after a series of mishaps with a couple of stray balls, we did manage to find her.
Did you ever know a selfless person, Joe? That's Miss Campbell. If the girls were ever asked to choose a Dean, they'd elect Campbell.

The C-Club is still satisfying our victory thirsty throats at the basketball games. Scouring around the gyms, the members wearing those big handsome 'C's, earn money through the sale of pamphlets in order to help pay for many athletic awards.
"to encourage high school athletic standing, to engender the highest type of athletic contests" — repeat the new members of the C Club. By the high qualifications stated in the pledge, you can see, for, that the members of this organization will be the fellows who will join the fighting forces the fellows who will become the useful citizens in peacetime

... girls going around the halls in the queerest get-ups. Someone said they were scuttling for Agona Club. We heard they had a royal initiation, too, singing songs containing all the members' names, wearing outlandish costumes, and eating a "square" meal.
Miss Campbell enjoyed the fun, too. Don't get the wrong idea about the Agonas, for, they aren't completely haywire.
Their All Club Banquet this year was super. It's too bad you had to miss the little H.Y.-Agona feud which raged during the meal, not to speak of the two skits which...

One day early in March an assembly was put on by a group of students who explained a new, completely student-governed noon-time activities program. This was one of the first results of our growing spirit of self-government, a realization of the meaning of self-discipline, the kind of discipline we shall be needing all our lives, the kind that makes democracy work. With the noontime program working so efficiently, we recognize Mr.
Dylman's part in this movement and thank him for his contribution to Central.

A page of handwritten musical notation on aged, slightly stained paper. The notation is written in dark ink and consists of several staves. The first staff begins with a treble clef and contains several notes, including a prominent eighth note. Subsequent staves continue the musical piece with various note values and rests. The handwriting is clear but shows signs of being a working draft or a personal manuscript. Working under the handicap of changing coaches in midseason, the fightingest basketball squad Central has seen in a long time look upon themselves the task of upholding Central's athletic prestige gained during the football season. Considering our scores, victories, and losses, it is not without pride that we say they succeeded in accomplishing their purpose. It is not to the players, but to instructors Al Russell, Walter and Lanny Varney, who the credit for keeping alive the fighting spirit in which Central will always be remembered.

Like the varsity, the second team basketball squad worked under two coaches during the season. The methods of (19) Charles Gruen and Welsh of Yarrowa seemed to work together for good, as the team successfully ended the season by soundly trouncing Preston, the second team City Champs. Our boys played hard and lost ball, got, and deserved their high position in the reserve league standings.

the tennis courts. Loss of the Turner Two and Turner Two men of the '+2 team have acted as a stimulus to returning netters hard, pre season practice in adverse weather conditions should certainly pay dividends in doubles and singles victories later in the season. At least Coach Shroff thinks so and so does Central.

Central's boys who know the limits of individual competition are out to overcome the loss of team balance resulting from the graduation of many of the veterans last summer. The veterans had increased their number and can get (quarter mile), and around twenty (three year veteran in the hole mainly broad jump, and hurdles) have already turned in good performances in their respective events. Coach Clayton Garneth has also uncovered and developed men of latent brilliance in other events so that a good season is more than a possibility.

This is ME
 Duke

With talk of home runs, stolen bases and double plays in the air Coach, Mattie looks over his fine veteran hitting staff and says 'better with holes for a winning season. And listen to this too — Bill Central's Henderson family is pitching on the team. Now can we lose? Other schools seem to have tough experienced teams too but our boys are ready and should give a good account of themselves against any and all competition

... You know by now how many jobs there are which mean lots of hard work and very little credit.
No group works harder than our sports managers. Late and early - after the crowds have left, hours before the games start, in drizzling rain, in drenching downpours, in stifling heat, Jim Matthew and his crew, under the direction of "Mac", take care of equipment. This year we discovered that upperclassmen make good cheerleaders.
Burt, Jim, and Ben surprised all of us, including the two Daves.

that a great school like this doesn't just "run itself." There are many people here who keep the wheels greased and the halls swept.
They remind us good naturedly to close the windows, turn the lights out, and leave by the front door.
They help us to open our jammed lockers and have smiled patiently when we forgot our combinations. Mrs.
Bowen's understanding friendliness is as unfaulting as her jingling keys and even more necessary to life at Central.

"Good sports" - Those are words that mean a lot to young people. You know what we mean, Joe? We respect and admire "good sports". They're our friends. Our teachers are the best of sports. Mr Upton - who has the responsibility of running a school like Central - finds time to be friendly and understanding. Long after we've forgotten equations or memory selections, we'll remember the many jokes we've had with our teachers. Long after we've forgotten the Law of Diminishing Returns we'll remember their clever skits - just look at the All-Club Banquet pictures.

Sudden Encounter

They gave their lives.

we lend our money

here in the defense

we lend our money

while you fellows risk your lives. Many of us will soon be out there with you for. Then we'll be proud to know Centralites are behind us, buying war stamps and bonds.

. . . Eating less meat and sugar, wearing out each pair of shoes. . . these are small sacrifices for us to make, so here we try to do our part by buying "a share of freedom". . .

Filling out draft questionnaires, writing college applications, taking entrance exams, applying for jobs, getting recommendations, reporting for physicals, practicing for concerts, going out for sports, putting out an Annual - yes, Joe, the seniors of 1943 have certainly had a busy year . . . We've had time, though, to look back on six years of making friends and absorbing knowledge, time to look ahead to an uncertain future which must be faced with courage and determination, time to realize that Miss Reese has been an untiring adviser - a sympathetic friend - time to say to all of our teachers "thanks for everything".

We feel as every senior class has felt, no doubt, that our officers and our committee chairman have done a superb job!

Intried we come to heed the call That ends our youth. Our well-thumbed books Are put away. Our pencil Our football stubs
Are to be laid. Our yellow C's Are laid between yearbooks And pictures of our senior friends.
The slow clock has reached the hour.

We go to fight for freedom, Forfeiting college dreams.
A once-planned life are left with The task. We go to win A war and make a lasting peace,
To make this world forever free To learn; we leave to serve."

Joe, you're lucky! The government gives you your clothes. The poor costume committee was ordered to "beg, borrow, or steal" pastel pajamas chosen with care to blend delicately with purple stage-sets. . . . Imagine changing the set and setting up six beds in three minutes. The stage crew did it! - even with the prop committee razzing around under their feet. The amiable make-up committee did a good job of spreading the grease paint. It was well worth the effort though. According to the director, Miss Donke, we'll all receive our reward in heaven.

"I can't stop them from knowing what's going on in the world. I can't stop their letters from home; but after all, if I can't control six school girls who were the best of friends before the war. . . . This quotation embodies the theme of our Senior Play, Letters to Lucerne. It explains the struggle that the headmistress of a girls boarding school in Switzerland had in maintaining a spirit of friendliness among girls from America, England, France, Poland, and Germany. You would feel, as we do, Joe, that the message of this timely play strengthens faith in the peace we look forward to when the lights go on again."

have had some high and low times together but they have all been fun.
I hope you are in school and when you are (maybe)

If it wasn't for you, I would not skip all the time
Love, Luke

Dick is a swell guide Sgt. and school chum especially in History Rob and Ladewig

Hi Dick, the professor thinks it's a good idea to have you and to have you in the school office of your future
Noble

Dick -
Good luck!
Keep drinking water and stay happy - Nat. S. of Reagan's

Dear Dick -
You're a swell kid and I hope you have all the luck in everything you do. Remember those double dates!
Sincerely,
Pat Simon

It will probably be a long time before we get out of this place, but of this swell and fine and fine back to you and luck, always,
Marianne

Dear Dick,
Good luck to a wonderful kid.

Dear Richard,
I wish we had time for some had some bottles. It was all in fun. I hope I'll see you next year. Phyl Vandenberg
